Final Paper Submission : 20% of the total grade points

Based on your field of interests and what you have learned in this course, your task is to write a paper about an AI challenge or ethical problem for which you would like to provide a solution. To complete your end-term assignment, you will be required to find a minimum of 5 additional references (including the references presented in your mid-term assignment) to support your argument. Your paper should demonstrate your understanding of the course material. Minimum 7 References for the entire paper.

Expectations: In your end-term assignment, you are expected to:

- Continue working on the AI challenge or ethical problem identified in Midterm paper for which you would like to provide a solution
- Explain why the challenge or problem is an ethical one
 - As such, you will provide a brief definition of ethics.
- Justify why your challenge or ethical problem matters
- Propose a realistic solution to your challenge or ethical problem
- And summarize your additional references (minimum of 2-3 references, depending on the number of references included in your mid-term assignment).

Annotated Bibliography:

A summary represents 10-25 percent of the article and is the article in miniature. As such, a summary tells you what the article is about, overall. It should highlight the most important key concepts or points being made in the article that you learned by reading it. It must have enough details that it may be read in place of the article. Summarizing is very valuable because it requires you to:

- spend time with the information you are to condense.
- think about the information and which parts are more important and which are less important.
- and rewrite in your own words the points or ideas you have identified for inclusion in your summary.

Paper format:

Your paper must be formatted in accordance with the APA style.

- You can refer to the APA Format Citation Guide: <https://www.mendeley.com/guides/apa-citation-guide> or to the section Style and Grammar Guidelines on the APA Style website: <https://apastyle.apa.org/>

All the referenced material should be included in in-text citations as well as in a reference list. Each summary and the draft outline should be presented in individual appendices. Your final paper should not exceed 6 pages. Title page, summary, references, appendices, and notes do not tally towards the page count. Make sure to have 12 pt. Font, double-spaced paragraphs.
